

The Cornell Lab of Ornithology

Teachers—you're invited to a weekend workshop that will deeply engage you in learning with the Cornell Lab of Ornithology!

The beautiful Cornell Lab of Ornithology in Ithaca, NY will serve as the backdrop for this unique workshop!

Join BirdSleuth coordinator, Jennifer Fee, for hands-on activities and authentic inquiry experiences, both indoors and out! Topics include: citizen science, outdoor teaching, bird diversity and adaptations, leading student investigations, and birds as a gateway to inquiry and interdisciplinary study.

If you enjoy learning, you're sure to appreciate this opportunity to gain content knowledge and skills from Lab educators and scientists. Plus... network with other teachers, get outside, and get a behind-the-scenes look at the world-renowned Cornell Lab of Ornithology. You'll return to school on Monday with renewed energy and ideas you can immediately implement in your classroom!

Dates: November 21-22, 2009 (Saturday, 10am until Sunday at noon)

Place: Cornell Lab of Ornithology, Ithaca NY

Details and to apply: See next page for details and a registration form. Registration limited to first 25 registrants. $50 registration fee. You may also visit <http://www.birds.cornell.edu/birdsleuth/workshops/lab> for complete information!
