

HOME TWEET HOME COMPETITION

WSKG and the Cornell Lab of Ornithology invites student groups in grades K-12 to submit proposals with your ideas on creating or improving bird habitats in your community. Selected proposals will receive a $150 stipend to implement their project! The Cornell Lab of Ornithology will send all entrants a kit with all the educational materials needed to carry out your project including 2 colorful bird posters, a gardening for the birds poster, seeds for planting, data collection sheet, and more!

WHO

Students in grades K-12 must work in a group/team with at least 3 members and 1 teacher/adult coach. This competition is open to schools, classrooms, youth organizations & clubs, scouting groups, 4H programs, etc.

WHEN/HOW

- Application deadline is February 11, 2011
- Proposals must be postmarked by February 2, 2011 and sent to:
WSKG Education/Outreach Dept.
P.O. Box 3000 Binghamton, NY 13901
  - Visit:
<http://www.wskg.org/teach-and-learn.aspx>
for more information and resources
  - Contact Nancy Coddington at:

WHAT

Your challenge is to support a bird habitat in your community! This could include watering & feeding areas, nestboxes, expanding upon an existing habitat, creating a new habitat, etc. Your proposal should feature a narrative describing your project in detail, an artistic rendering of the finished project, and a budget.

To qualify, please plan to:

- Implement project in your community by April 2011
- Participate in a training video conference hosted by Cornell Lab of Ornithology scientists
- Collect Data (utilizing www.CelebrateUrbanBirds.org)
- Work with WSKG to share your experience with other student groups involved in Home Tweet Home and our community
- Integrate the arts, sciences, and ELA
- Get people outside!
